

Dear Unite friends in Dallas,

We were saddened to hear about the tornadoes that did such damage to the Metroplex last week. The scale of the damage appears to be massive, and by all accounts, the cost of recovery will be the largest in Texas history. While we rejoice with you that there was no loss of life, we understand that there is a huge need for relief and rehabilitation that will continue for months, and perhaps years, to come. We join you in prayer for those who are suffering greatly from the loss of property, shelter, and security. Praise God for your faithfulness to have developed such resources and networks to allow Unite and others to mobilize quickly and effectively!

In times of tremendous need, communities often come together to address the material needs, but we are asking that God will give His people unique anointing to also address the spiritual and emotional needs due to trauma, fear, worry, and grief. May God give you grace to reach out to the most vulnerable of the hurting - those families who had no insurance, the displaced school children, workers whose livelihood was wiped out, grassroots nonprofits already stretched financially that are doing even more for the communities who rely on them. What an incredible opportunity for the church to be salt and light in dark times!

May Our Heavenly Father strengthen and encourage you as you serve Him!

Blessings,
Your friends at The Chalmers Center

We remember before our God and Father your work produced by faith, your labor prompted by love, and your endurance inspired by hope in our Lord Jesus Christ.
